PROJECT DESCRIPTION:

Objectives

According to growing interest of young people in gaining knowledge and skills in Sinology and Chinese Studies, there is a need for further development of higher education in this direction. Unfortunately, there are no Master's degree programs related to Chinese Studies in Kyrgyzstan's universities. Therefore, there is an urgent need to open a two-year Master's degree program on Chinese Studies, with intensive and advanced language training and sinology studies research.

Within the framework of the project it is planned to develop and implement a joint Master's degree program with a joint diploma on "Chinese Studies" in partnership with Chinese and European universities at Kyrgyz-Chinese Faculty of Osh State University

Activities

Together with the partner universities, a unified curriculum on Chinese Studies will be developed including the student and teacher exchange mobility. The curriculum of the program will provide broad interdisciplinary knowledge about Chinese society, economy, business, politics and culture. Flexibility will be offered in combining cultural and political studies with advanced modules in Chinese and English.

Results

- Development of the unified educational Master's degree program in "Chinese Studies" in cooperation with partner universities
- Development of a methodology for adapting the joint curriculum and educational program in accordance with the suggestions and recommendations of partner universities
- Development of the State educational standard of the Master's degree on "Chinese Studies" and register it at the Ministry of Education and Science of Kyrgyzstan
- Improvement of professional development and scientific potential of teachers
- Providing an individual trajectory of training and mobility of Master's students
- Introduction of modern teaching methods with elements of distance learning
- Dissemination of information and project results to other universities of Kyrgyzstan and foreign countries.
